VICE-PRESIDENT JAMES S. SHERMAN IS DEAD AT UTICA

Distinguished Patient Succumbed to Uremic Poisoning and Bright's Disease at 9:42 Last Night.

FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

Had Been Ill for the Past Three Weeks But Condition Only Became Alarming Last Monday.

DEATH WON'T AFFECT ELECTION

In Case of Republican Success the Taft Electors Will Choose a Successor to Him—Dead Statesman Was Born in Utica on October 24, 1855, of English Descent—As a Member of Congress He Was Conspicuous and Played an Important Part in the Councils of His Party, Both National and State.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 31.—James Schoolcraft Sherman, vice-president of the United States, died at his home here last night after an illness of several weeks. The end came at 9:32 o'clock. Mrs. Sherman and the other members of the family being at the bedside. The immediate cause of death was uremic poisoning.

Mr. Sherman was unconscious most of the day. Only twice did he awaken from the state of coma into which he sank early in the morning. Once he was delirious and the other time he was roused sufficiently to recognize Mrs. Sherman and Doctor Fayette H. Peck, the family physician.

Beginning of End Monday.
For the past three weeks he has remained in bed most of the time. His condition grew alarming last Monday morning when his physicians realized that the end was near. Oxygen and every other resource known to medicine were used but the patient sank steadily.

The official bulletin of the death, issued by Doctor Peck, is as follows:

"The vice-president died without regaining consciousness. He was perfectly quiet. He died in the presence of his wife, her brother and sister, his two brothers and his three sons, and their wives. He had been entirely unconscious since seven o'clock in the evening, when he had a period of partial consciousness, lasting about fifteen minutes. He died in a uremic coma as a result of Bright's disease, heart disease and arterio-sclerosis."

Was Born at Utica, N. Y.
James Schoolcraft Sherman was born in Utica, N. Y., on October 24, 1855. His parents were Richard U. and Mary Frances Sherman, both of English descent. Richard U. Sherman was a journalist by profession. He established the Utica Morning Herald and later, when politics and public office became his principal concern, he wrote Washington letters for New York papers, in which he praised Roscoe Conkling, who lived in Utica.

Vice-President Sherman attended the public schools of Utica and in 1878 was graduated from Hamilton college, which is in a suburb of that city. Two years later he was admitted to the bar and he continued to practice law until the beginning of the year of 1907.

Father Was a Democrat.
Although his father had been a strong Democrat, Mr. Sherman allied himself at the age of twenty-two with the Republican party. His rise in its ranks was steady. In 1883 he became Oneida county chairman and one year later he was elected mayor, at the age of twenty-nine. He was the youngest mayor Utica ever had.

His congressional career began in 1887 and lasted, with one year's exception, until he ran for vice-president with Taft in 1908. Three times he served as a chairman of state conventions, and he has been "spoken of" in connection with almost every important political post since 1900.

In the house Sherman served as chairman of the committee on railroads and canals, of the committee on Indian affairs and of the committee on rules, all powerful in its influence.

The part Sherman played in the national councils of the Republican party was more felt than observed, but it was always of highest importance. He was invariably consulted in the mapping out of national campaigns.

Was Married in 1881.
The vice-president's marriage to Miss Carrie Babcock of East Orange, N. J., granddaughter of Col. Eliakim Sherrill, a noted Whig leader in New York in the days of Henry Clay, took place in 1881.

ABE MARTIN

It's refreshin' these days t' go home an' spend th' evenin' with somebuddy that can't vote. Nothin' is ever said about th' sub-contractors on th' average self-made man.

His children are Sherrill, a banker; Richard Hugh, a Hamilton college mathematic professor, and Thomas M., an official in one of his father's companies—all married and residents of Utica.

Had Host of Personal Friends.
Sherman was not long in congress before he was recognized as one of the really influential men in the national legislature. From the beginning he was one of the most popular men in Washington, with a host of personal friends even among the Democrats. A friend of all the men powerful in his party, his appointments during his eighteen years as congressman were numerous. He was closely allied with Speaker Cannon and once he tried to get the speakership himself—when Reed retired. A western combination prevented his election, however. Sherman stood next to Speaker Reed in his grasp of parliamentary law.

Requested to Stay in Congress.
When defeated for the speakership, Sherman was offered the position of secretary of the senate, but was compelled to decline because of the urgent request of his townsmen that he continue to represent them in congress. This action of his townsmen occurred a second time, when McKinley offered to make him general appraiser of the port of New York. Mass meetings were held in Utica and great gatherings sent delegates to him to beg him to remain in congress as their representative. So he declined this place and stayed in congress.

Declined a Judgeship.
Sherman could have had a number of federal positions, even to a judgeship; but he preferred to remain in congress.

The personal popularity of the vice-president was universally conceded. At political gatherings and at the capitol in Washington he was always surrounded by friends and seemed to radiate good-fellowship.

When Sherman's name was presented to the Chicago convention in 1908, his most enthusiastic support came from the western states, where he was known on account of his work on the Indian affairs committee. He had the solid vote of Oklahoma, his nomination being seconded by a delegate from that territory. He received the votes of all the territories in the convention.

Will Not Affect Election.

New York, Oct. 31.—The death of Vice-President Sherman will have no effect on the election. The Taft electors, in case of a Taft victory at the polls next Tuesday, will choose a vice-president. The selection will probably be made by the Republican national committee, in case the Republican ticket wins.

Disregarding the outcome of the election, the country will have no vice-president up to March 4, 1913, owing to the death of Mr. Sherman, as the Constitution makes no provision for a successor to the vice-president.

The president pro tempore of the senate assumes the vice-president's duties as president of the senate, in the event of the death of the vice-president.

At present there is no president pro tempore of the senate, the position formerly held by Senator William F. Frye of Maine, the Republicans in the senate having failed to agree upon a successor.

MRS. BIVINS DEAD.

Mrs. A. L. Bivins died at Watertown hospital this afternoon after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. Funeral arrangements and obituary will be given later.

Ladies are cordially invited to attend the opera house election night and hear the election returns.

Robert Teachout has returned from Chicago where he sold a carload of hogs.

LYRIC GLEE CLUB AT OPERA HOUSE

FIRST NUMBER OF Y. M. C. A. COURSE APPEARS THIS EVENING.

The first number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course will be given at the Dixon opera house this evening and the indications are for a packed house, for the Lyric Glee club which will furnish tonight's entertainment is a strong favorite in this city. Last year their number was the most popular in the course and it is announced by the lyceum bureau that their program this year is even stronger than last. The club is made up of four young men, each one of whom is an accomplished vocalist, and in addition they give instrumental selections and readings. The seat sale has been heavy and there is no doubt that the 1912-13 course will have a most successful beginning.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MET

A short meeting of the Dixon Poultry association was held at the Youngman coal office last evening, when plans for the coming poultry show, which will be held in this city in January, were talked over. Poultryman Green, a fancier, was present and made a short talk to the members, after which the meeting adjourned until Friday evening, November 8th.

Charles Arnold of St. Louis is here visiting his sister, Miss Arnold, for a few days.

EDITORIAL

"SUNNY JIM" IS CALLED.

James Schoolcraft Sherman, Vice President of the United States of America, died last evening and this nation has lost one of her great men. Everyone that knew "Sunny Jim" Sherman loved him, and he was respected by American citizens of all parties and classes for the great services he had rendered his country. In Washington his friendship was restricted by no party lines and in his home town, Utica, N. Y., he was the idol of his fellow townsmen. Such was their respect for him that a progressive meeting, which was to have been held tonight and at which Gov. Hiram Johnson, progressive candidate for vice president was to have been the speaker, has been called off, and the democrats of Utica have hauled down their Wilson-Marshall banner which was hung across one of the main streets. The mayor of Utica, in a proclamation, eulogized the life of the dead statesman, and all flags in Utica are at half-mast.

The death of Mr. Sherman has taken the bitterness out of the last few remaining days of the campaign, and sorrow for the untimely closing of the chapters of a life that has been sweet and good, cheerful and helpful, honest and upright in public and kind and loving at home, will mitigate and soften the feelings of animosity between men and different parties. The nation loved James Sherman, and the nation mourns his death.

PREVENTION OF SCARLET FEVER

The scarlet fever scare in North Dixon, which fortunately is in no respect serious, but which at the same time is alarming the parents of small children, has caused many requests that some preventative measures be published for the benefit of those who wish to follow them.

The Telegraph has asked a number of physicians if they would prepare an article outlining such features, but the doctors are now preparing a pamphlet to be issued for free distribution to every house in the city, and the ground will be thoroughly covered in that pamphlet.

However, those who do not wish to wait for the physicians' booklet will be perfectly safe in having the children gargle their throats twice or three times daily, preferably after returning from school, noon, and in the afternoon and before going to bed at night, with a gargle of one part alcohol and three parts water. The gargle should be thorough, and afterwards it will be well to spray the nostrils with the mixture. The alcohol will ordinarily destroy any scarlet fever germs, which always lodge in the throat and nostrils, and compliance with the above suggestion will do much to ward off the disease.

Parents are urged, also, to consult a physician at once should they note any indisposition on the part of their children. Sore throat, accompanied with headache and languidness on the part of the children, is a striking symptom of the disease, but the inception of the fever may also be indicated by pains through the body and vomiting. Usually the rash does not make its appearance until the second or third day, and, therefore, parents should watch for any of the above symptoms, and if they are present a competent physician should be consulted at once and in no case should children be sent to school if such symptoms are present.

The situation, as stated above, is not serious, but all epidemics arise from small origins and the co-operation of the parents at this time may prevent the spread of the disease, which is more serious than diphtheria or small-pox, and a little care at this time may save the health of many children who otherwise would contract the disease. At no time is the old proverb, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," more applicable than at present.

Mrs. Reilly Gilton of Platte, S. D., and Mrs. James Coates of Academy, S. D., are visiting friends and relatives here.

MISS KATHERINE ELKINS.

According to cable reports from Rome, Miss Elkins, daughter of the late Senator Elkins of West Virginia, has been married to William Hitt of Illinois.

HAVE YOU THOUGHT IT OVER?

Tuesday, November 5, is election day. It is nearly here. And when it is over the question as to whether the Republican or the Democratic party is to govern this country will be settled for four years.

Haven't the Republican party treated you pretty well? And haven't you found it reasonably easy to make a living these last four years? Can you see any way the Democratic party can make it any easier? And might it not make it a lot harder?

There has been a lot of talk in this campaign about "bosses" and "thieves" and "liars" and initiatives and referendums and things like that.

But there is only one issue:

And this is, shall we make sure of the good times we have, or shall we risk bringing hard times by voting for a change?

That is all there is to it. Think it over.

PROGRESSIVES TOUR THE COUNTY MONDAY

FLETCHER DOBYNS WILL BE SPEAKER AT SEVERAL MEETINGS.

On next Monday, the day preceding the election, the progressives will take their parting shot in the campaign. Fletcher Dobyns will be the speaker of the day and he will tour the county, making a series of speeches. The itinerary:

LEGISLATURE AT STAKE.

Do Republican voters understand what the loss of the Legislature would mean?

Two United States Senators to be elected.

Reapportionment—Senatorial and Congressional—for ten years.

New Public Utility Legislation to be passed. Support for the State Platform Pledges.

DON'T FORGET SHERMAN

WORK and VOTE for Republican Legislative Candidates. They will vote for him.

FINAL REPUBLICAN MEETING WAS VERY SUCCESSFUL ONE

RALPH R. LOUNSBURY MADE A FORCEFUL AND LOGICAL APPEAL TO VOTERS.

JOHN BYERS MADE AN EXCELLENT TALK

Local Man Is Good Speaker—Lounsbury's Topic Was National Ticket—Gave Many Good Reasons for Supporting President Taft.

One of the final guns in the local republican campaign was fired last night at the meeting held at the opera house and a very good sized audience listened to an instructive and sane address by Hon. Ralph R. Lounsbury of the law firm of Wood & Lounsbury, Chicago.

Prior to the meeting the Marine band played a number of selections on the street, and opened the meeting in the opera house with a few stirring marches, following which John H. Byers of this city, private secretary to Congressman John C. McKenzie, took charge of the meeting.

Praises McKenzie.

Mr. Byers, in referring to the candidacy of his chief, stated that it was neither the time nor the place for him to go into an extended talk on the merits of Congressman McKenzie. But, said Mr. Byers, we all know the congressman and we know his record, and that record, I believe entitles him to re-election. He dealt briefly with conditions that exist in politics at the present campaign and introduced the speaker in his usual happy and easy manner. Mr. Byers' short address was right to the point and he was warmly applauded as he introduced Mr. Lounsbury.

No Mud Thrown.

A pleasing feature of the entire meeting was that at no time did either of the speakers indulge in any mud throwing. Mr. Byers devoted his remarks to a review of Mr. McKenzie's record on the state and national legislative bodies and showed that that record was one of which any man could be proud, and as one which should insure his re-election.

Mr. Lounsbury's address was devoted almost entirely to a plea for the national republican ticket. He expressed his belief that every citizen, after a careful survey of what the present administration has done would agree with him that present conditions should be let alone. He reviewed the accomplishments of the administration and devoted special attention to President Taft's Tariff Board, which he said, is the only practical and businesslike way to deal with the issue. The workmen's compensation measure which have been promulgated by the present administration were also praised by the speaker.

No Good Advertiser.

President Taft, said the speaker, is not like some of our candidates. He has never abused anybody, nor has he called anyone the "short and ugly word." He certainly is not as good a self-advertiser as some candidates before the public; but his administration has been thoughtful, steady and beneficial. The president is a big man, capable of handling the biggest problems that come before him, and his record as chief executive shows that he has studied carefully every question that has come before him, never jumping at conclusions which might have caused unrest and trouble.

Mr. Lounsbury paid brief respects to the platforms of the other parties, and argued passionately against the judicial plank in the progressive platform, which ask for the recall of judges and judicial decisions. As a lawyer, Mr. Lounsbury knows what such a condition would bring about, and he portrayed in forceful language some of the resulting conditions.

Summing up his arguments, Mr. Lounsbury said the republican national administration has been safe, sane and progressive; business has grown and flourished, workmen have been employed at good wages, and the country has been exceptionally prosperous during the last four years. A plea to the republicans to continue the administration in force closed his remarks.

A fine musical number, "Rondo Capriccioso," by Mendelssohn, given by Miss Ruth Altman, was listened to with much pleasure. Miss Kathryn Strong kindly consented to furnish the paper of the afternoon upon Josiah Wedgwood. Miss Strong plainly showed she was familiar with the life and art of Wedgwood, and began by tracing ceramic art in England to the 18th century, from making of tiles, earthen and stone ware.

Josiah Wedgwood was born in Staffordshire in 1730, where the potter's industry had flourished since remotest times. He was apprenticed to Whieldon and improved upon his methods so that he was himself a master potter at the age of thirty. His earliest wares were among the useful domestic articles in which he used new material and colorings and invented the cream colored Queen's ware, named so in honor of Queen Charlotte.

By applying chemistry to the improvement of his pottery he made his wonderful pieces of art. His Jasper and Cameos are the most noted of his art. He introduced the classic designs into pottery so thoroughly uniting art with industry that it has earned him the name of the greatest master of his art.

After adjournment delicious refreshments were served during the social hour in the dining room.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps and a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualacal and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

For Drunkenness, Opium, Morphine and other Drug Using the Tobacco Habit and Neuritis. THE KEELEY CURE INSTITUTE. D-1912, 11

The ladies who assisted the hostesses in receiving were Mesdames Z. W. Moss, James Sterling, Fred Dimick and W. B. Steele.

The stately home was very beautifully decorated in autumn leaves and foliage, red, yellow, russet and orange, and these decorations were further enhanced by the queen of autumn flowers, the chrysanthemum. About 70 guests were entertained during the afternoon. Smith's orchestra discoursed sweet music.

The young ladies who assisted in serving in the dining room were Mrs. George Dixon, Misses Caroline Stothower, Olive Nortrup, Mary Hauser, Mrs. Jack Forrest, Mrs. Geo. Downing and Miss Grace Crawford.

The dining room where a tempting tea was served was a veritable forest of autumn leaves and the beautiful shades of turning leaves were intensified by the shaded yellow candle light. Great shaggy, yellow chrysanthemums and smilax added to the artistic effect as the ladies enjoyed the delicious viands set before them. The reception is conceded to have been one of the most successful and altogether enjoyable events of the autumn social season.

This afternoon at the home of Mrs. Crabtree, 322 Depot avenue, Mesdames Wm. Block, Edgar Crawford, B. F. Downing and Barry Lennon were hostesses to a number of ladies at a thimble party. Beautiful decorations of autumn leaves, smilax and chrysanthemums were used. In the dining room shaded yellow candle light shed a golden glow over the pretty scene. Nimble fingers sewed many pretty trifles as the afternoon was happily spent in social converse. A delicious tea was served.

Social at College.

Tomorrow evening at the college, the oratory department, of which Mrs. A. G. Burnham is dean, will hold a Halloween social in the chapel of Dixon college. There will be no admission fee and everyone is invited, but homemade candy, pies, doughnuts, etc., will be for sale. A program is to be given, there will be games and a fortune teller will reveal secrets and all are cordially invited.

Scramble Tea.

The members of Dorothy Chapter, O. E. S., and their families, numbering almost 175, enjoyed a scramble tea, or one might say, a dinner, so substantial was the repast, last evening in Masonic hall. At 5:30, thirty children were seated at the tables and heartily enjoyed the supper, and afterward the adults were served and still a second lot of hungry people did justice to the fine supper. The decorations were in the Halloween spirit and jack-o-lanterns occupied each window in the hall, making the scene a pretty one. Afterward a short and enjoyable program was given. Miss Marcelle Kent rendered a violin solo, as did Erman Miller. Miss Goldie Brierton pleased with a piano solo and Misses Irma Brown, Helen Kramer and Master Sidney Eichler also rendered piano solos. Everyone seemed to have an enjoyable time.

Rebekahs Entertain.

The entertainment committee of the Minnie Belle Rebekah lodge was very successful in the Halloween social given last evening in I. O. O. F. hall, a large crowd attending and enjoying the fun of the evening. Jack-o-lanterns, autumn leaves, fruits and flowers lent their beauty to the decorations of the hall.

At 8:30 the lights went out and a band of 12 ghosts appeared in awful silence and took charge of the program. Miss Marcelle Kent rendered a sweet violin solo and Wm. Worley pleased his hearers with a nicely rendered piano solo. Mrs. Potter Brown, one of the sister ghosts, gave a very interesting reading. After the program the ghostly band led the way and the guests entered the dining room, where two fortune telling booths attracted attention. Madame Kent became quite celebrated for her clairvoyance and powers of discernment, especially when she was acquainted with the seeker of fortunes, and Miss Jennie Oakes who presided at the other booth, had many customers and she located many a fortune and heirloom, hitherto unsuspected.

A candy booth from which delicious candies were sold, received its share of attention. A hanged old witch in the center of the floor cooked up fortunes and dispensed happiness and sorrow.

The band of twelve ghosts then led the guests to the rooms across the hall where delicious refreshments appropriate to the Halloween season were served. An unique idea was the manner in which partners were found for supper. Pictures of animals were cut in different sections and the pieces distributed, and the pieces fitting each other were paired off as partners. Various comical stuffs were enjoyed throughout the evening, such as shewing a string for the prize in the center. A prominent professional man of the city and a young lady chewed miles of string last evening to obtain a doughnut, and when we left they were still chewing.

Altogether the evening proved of unusual enjoyment and the entertainment committee certainly spent much time and energy on preparing the pleasant time for all. Quite a neat sum was realized and the committee is to be congratulated on the success of their venture.

CANDIDATE FOR ALL GOOD-CLOTHES WEARERS

PEOPLE'S PARTY

X

Boynton Richards Co.

PLATFORM

WE, the men of Dixon and vicinity who believe in dressing well, hereby declare our belief in the undying principle that all men ought to be particular about what they get for their clothes-money.

We point with pride to the Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes that can be bought of Boynton Richards Co, the best clothes made.

We declare our unalterable conviction that Boynton-Richards Co. are selling the smartest lot of suits and overcoats ever brought to this town; and we call upon young men, especially those who are to cast their first clothes vote this fall, to support our candidate, thereby saving themselves from dissatisfaction and unnecessary expense.

We view with alarm the increasing cost of living; and we pledge to the public that, so far as good clothes are concerned, our candidate will quote prices that are low enough, and on qualities that are high enough, to make for real economy.

We denounce the cotton-mixed fabrics that are common in clothes, and declare ourselves unalterably for a single-standard—all wool fabrics.

We pledge our candidate to furnish you the best clothes you ever wore, and at the most reasonable price.

Dramatic Notes

DIXON OPERA HOUSE.

The vaudeville and motion pictures the last half of this week beginning Friday night, will present the classic act in vaudeville. Menlo Moore's Lads and Lassies, headed by the phenomenal little singer, Miss Dixie Harris, in a merry musical milange of playmate days. This act is one of its class which is just a little different. It is not a school act. It's just a bunch of happy youngsters who sing well and dance better in a beautiful garden set in full act. The musical numbers include Come to My Party; Mandy Jane, Mr. Moon Please Hide Your Face; Helene; Look Out for the Bogie Man; Swing- ing. Carries a full set of special scenery and scenic effects and will give you one of the prettiest musical tableaux ever seen in Dixon. Don't miss it.

FAMILY THEATRE

For the last half of the week, beginning tonight, Manager Michelstetter has arranged another praiseworthy program for his Family theatre. It is seldom that an acrobatic act is worthy of more than passing mention, but in 'the Marcena and Delton Bros. act is one of exceptional merit and the patrons of the Family are fortunate in having them as an attraction for their pleasure. Marcena, the comedian, without resorting to a clown makeup, presents a brand of comedy that is convulsing. His pantomimic work is an art and his contortion work is grotesque in the extreme. The Delton Bros. do several very remarkable feats which they originated and they alone are the only ones performing the same. Coburn and Pearson will also be seen in a singing, dancing and talking act. Both are clever performers and have made a hit on every program in which they appeared. The very latest motion views will be unreeled, completing the program.

"THE BLUE BIRD"
FLIGHT NEAR DONE
Only a Few More Times of This Delightful Fantasy at the Garrick Theatre, Chicago.

"The Blue Bird" run at the Garrick theatre, Chicago, will come to an end Saturday evening, Nov. 9th, and those who have delayed their visit to the beautiful Randolph st. playhouse and this exquisitely poetic drama, should hurry with making their reservations or they will be disappointed. The popularity of The Blue Bird is attested by the fact that ten performances will be given next week and eleven the final week, seats sell actively are those of Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Already there is a strong demand for election day matinee and night seats. Mail orders should be addressed to Manager Asher Levy, Garrick Theatre, Chicago, and check or money order and stamped envelope, enclosed. The prices for all performances are lower floor, $1.50 and 1.25; balcony, $1 and $1.50; second balcony, 50c and 75c. There will be many, many plays of various sorts in Chicago this winter, but none with the peculiar charm that characterizes The Blue Bird. It is akin to the best things of life, and whether for old or young, imparts entertainment and inspiring ideals at the same time. The 160 actors in the cast and the exceedingly elaborate scenery give body to the meaning of the poet Maeterlinck in his survey of the whole world. The Blue Bird has thus been appropriately called "The Mirror of Life." Past, present and future, dreamland, fairyland and allegory are all included in its universal compass.

STOMACH SOUR? GOT INDIGESTION ALSO

"PAPER'S DIAPEPSIN" WILL MAKE YOUR DISORDERED STOMACH FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES—TIME IT!

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate, sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Paper's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent boxes, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

SOME REPUBLICAN FACTS

Business never better.
Wages never higher.
Factories running full time.
Railroads crowded with traffic.
Labor in demand.
Bank deposits increasing.
Everybody busy and hopeful.
Why Change When All's Well?

SOME DEMOCRATIC FACTS

Bread lines a mile long.
Soup houses everywhere.
Banks mostly busted.
Three million men idle.
Ten million children hungry.
Homes plastered with mortgages.
Nobody making any money.
Why Have Hard Times Again?

If Woodrow Wilson is elected—and it will be either Taft or Wilson, for Roosevelt cannot possibly be chosen—every manufacturer and business man will know on the morning of November 6 that the tariff will be radically changed.

There will then ensue many months of anxious waiting, during which time business men will curtail their working force and husband their resources against the blow that is sure to fall. When the new tariff law is enacted, orders will be abroad for immense quantities of goods. The withdrawal of orders from American factories will cause every plant to shut down, force millions of men into idleness and line the side tracks with empty cars.

In order to pay the bills of the foreign manufacturers, millions of dollars of American gold will have to be sent abroad. This will deplete the bank reserves, with consequent calling of loans and the sacrificing of securities in order to raise ready money. This means commercial and financial panic. The prosperity of 1892 faded away in less than two years of democratic administration under the Wilson tariff law. The prosperity of 1912, the climax of 16 years of republican administration, will also disappear if the democratic party comes into power.

SIX NUNS DIE TO SAVE 87 ORPHANS

All Except Two Children Rescued From Flames at San Antonio, Tex.

WOMEN PLUNGE TO DEATH

Mother Superior, With a Baby in Her Arms, Falls Back From Window Into Fiery Furnace—List of Those Who Died.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 31.—Six sisters of charity sacrificed their lives in a fire that destroyed St. John's orphanage, in an attempt to save 87 children in their charge. One baby fell to its death with Mary of the Cross, mother superior of the institution, who left her place of safety in a vain effort to save the child. Another orphan is missing, and it is feared it did not escape.

Flames broke out in the building early in the morning. Roused from their sleep, the nuns marshaled their charges and marched them to fire escapes, remaining in the structure until flames barred the way to safety. Two of the sisters, Kostka Farrell and Monica Montez, were killed by jumping.

Three of the Sisters Escaped. Three sisters escaped. Instructed to pilot the first column of frightened children out of danger, they gained the ground in time to escape the crash of falling walls.

The children owe their lives to the courage and self-sacrifice of the nuns. While attaches of the orphanage hospital hurried to the burning building and dashed through flames to help in the rescue work, many of the orphans would have been cremated in the dormitories if the nuns had not braved the first outbreak of fire and led the children to places of safety.

List of Those Who Died.

The dead are:
Mother Mary of the Cross, mother superior of the parish. She was Mary Rossiter, native of Wexford, Ireland.
Mother Frances Pasteur, native of France.

Sister Peter Claver Stevin, teacher in San Fernando school, native of Dublin, Ireland.

Sister Leocadia Nolan, teacher in San Fernando school, native of Dublin, Ireland.

Sister Monica Montez, native of Mexico.

Sister Kostka Farrell, a native of Kildare, Ireland.

Charles Mathlow, aged three, an orphan.

The injured are:

Miss A. Detemple, an employee, native of Germany.

Miss E. Standish, an employee, native of St. Hedwig.

The origin of the fire is not known. Eighty-seven orphan children, ranging from two to twelve years, and nine nuns were in the building when the flames broke out. Marshaling their charges to hurry them to safety, the sisters of charity remained in the blazing orphanage until the building began to crumble and fall.

The dead nuns belonged to the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word.

Scott County Farmers Meet.

Bluffs, Oct. 31.—The annual Scott County Farmers' institute was held in this city. The program was one of more than usual excellence, and with the fine weather the day was made a pleasant and profitable one for the big crowd that attended. The session opened with an address by President James Wilson of the Institute, and he was followed by F. I. Mann of Glenarm, who spoke on "Soil Fertility and Crop Production."

Dog Fancier Killed in Collision.

Barrington, Oct. 31.—Alexander Smith of Barrington, a well-known exhibitor of dogs and manager of the Vickery kennels at Barrington, was instantly killed when the buggy he was driving crashed into a farm wagon, driven by Arthur Jayne, a farmer. The accident occurred two miles north of Barrington. Jayne was thrown against a fence, but was not seriously injured. The Vickery kennels are owned by Mrs. A. V. Crawford of Glenoe.

Beast of Mystery Visits.

Jerseyville, Oct. 31.—Jersey county's mysterious animal, believed to be a panther, invaded Jerseyville. Two men say they saw it and heard it snarl, while the barking and howling of many dogs testified to the presence of something which disturbed them. The men first heard the animal scream and thought it was a woman who needed assistance.

Go out and have a good time this evening. Boys and girls, if the weather is pleasant. Have your parties, throw your corn, carry your jack-o-lanterns and get all the fun you can out of that kind of an evening, but if you must ring doorbells, pick out a house where you know there is a man with a genial disposition, but short legs. Don't get the idea that the only way to have fun is to pick out a house where aged people live and frighten them to death with noise, anger them with pranks nor distress them by destroying their property. If your mother or father was old and helpless, you would say that nothing was too bad to happen to the boy or girl who worried and frightened them.

The majority of the youth of Dixon is honorable and manly and womanly, and will spend this evening in harmless fun. The few who are ungentelemanly and rowdyish are apt to find themselves in trouble with the police.

WHEN? Next Monday and Tuesday.

WHERE? At Brown's.

WHAT? Furs. 573

B. RUSSELL HERTS SAYS

I am in hearty sympathy with the woman suffrage cause. I have devoted a good deal of time and energy to its advancement and it seems to me that the outlook for woman suffrage in the United States is brighter than perhaps in any other country at present, except in Italy, where Mr. Marconi tells me that extension of the vote is likely to take place within the next year. The King of Italy, by-the-way, is a strong woman suffragist.

The suffrage is in my opinion not only a right of women, but a necessity for them if they are to take their proper share of the responsible duties of modern society. They must learn to bear the direct burden of responsibility for government and to prepare the minds of their children for bearing this burden. To perform such duties through another is to perform them inadequately and with out full appreciation of their high importance.

DIXON COLLEGE WILL PLAY ST. VIATOR

LOCAL FOOTBALL ORGANIZATION CONFIDENT OF VICTORY SATURDAY.

Our football team is the best that Dixon College and Normal school has had for years. In their meet with the DeKalb Normal school team on last Saturday the score was 37 to 7 in our favor. Our team "gave 'em the ax" and beat 'em up in proper shape. As a matter of fact the DeKalb team is no match for Dixon College team. The success of our team may be attributed not only to the quality of timber of which it is composed, but also to the ability and skillful tactics of Coach Fingal. They will play St. Viator College at Kankakee on next Saturday, Nov. 2, and a comfortable victory is expected.

Frank Gorham can "come back." He rejoins the team and will be at right half.

The team will line up as follows: Buckley, Drake—left end. Hansen, Lord—left tackle. Beyerhof, Suegle—left guard. Hogan—center. Lawer, Laughlin—right guard. Harvey—right tackle. Sund—right end. Slack—full back. Kemper, Capt.—left half. Gorham—right half. Fingal—quarter.

BRITZ of HEADQUARTERS

By MARCIN BARBER

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

Copyright, 1912, by MARCIN BARBER and RAY WATERS

"I mind me," the one-time card dealer resumed, "of the one great diamond that came as the grand reward of all my labor. Ah, that was a diamond! But though it was a wonderful achievement, I dishonored myself in the making of it for—" and a faint flush deepened on his parchment face. "I fashioned it for gain!"

Without an instant's warning he pushed away the bench, dropped his face into his hands and gave way to grief that moved equally the man long hardened to dissection of the body and the veteran crime hunter accustomed to vivisection of the soul. Few things are more terrible than to see an old man weep. It is dual surrender, for tears are the prerogative of youth and womanhood. Britz and Fitch with difficulty controlled their own emotions just for a moment, for tears streamed over the ashen countenance of the broken amateur alchemist, and his wasted form writhed and rocked in convulsive sobs.

"I have had my punishment," said Martin when at last the tempest had spent itself; "but, oh, the long years—the long years of remorse! Urged by poverty, that enemy of seekers after truth and beauty, I succumbed to the temptation the stranger held out to me. I made the great diamond as he desired—and I gave it to him for his gold!"

The doctor glanced swiftly at the detective and started to speak. Britz raised a warning hand, and Fitch checked his exclamation. Seating himself for the first time the Central Office man—the probe of mysteries—laid his hand encouragingly on the diamond-maker's shoulder, and said: "There now; don't let it distress you so much. Other men have done things far worse than that!"

"Nothing could be worse," screamed Martin, springing from the low stool on which he sat and facing his visitors in an agony of abasement. "I sold the delight of my eyes, the light of my life, the star of my soul—the queen of all jewels, the purest, truest, most beautiful diamond the world has ever known!"

"Yes," said the detective, "but don't forget it was yours to sell. You had a right to do as you pleased with it."

"I had no such right," cried the alchemist. "That diamond was the product of my laboring hours. I brought it forth from the air, the sunshine, the silver water, the milk of the moon, as an Aphrodite is fashioned of dew and mist. It was not a mere stone; it had thought and sense and soul; it was a microcosm of the marvelous!"

Fitch could not hide his astonishment at the learning and poetry the fearfully agitated old man displayed. Britz himself, had not his thoughts been focused rigorously on his purpose, would have stopped to wonder at them. As it was he struck the front of the alchemist's remorse at white heat.

"What did the stranger want with it?" demanded the detective.

"I don't know," said Martin. His voice still trembled, his features worked, his hands fluttered and knotted themselves in the intensity of his emotion. "He came to me a stranger; he went away the same, and with him went my queen of jewels, my beautiful, beautiful diamond of diamonds! But I will find him," he shrieked.

"For centuries I have been upon his path. He thought all things ended between us when he lured me into parting with my treasure. He said because he had suggested the outline and color of the stone he had a right to make me give it to him for his money; but it was I—who thrust into the center of the glorious gem the fire from heaven. I penned the sunbursts in the priceless prism, and it is mine. It is mine by right of creation!"

This outburst excited the old man, but in a little while there was another outburst of his emotions. He fairly shouted:

"I will have him, though. I will come up with him yet, and when I do, I will give him back his money and make him return the diamond to me. He thought he left nothing to tell me who he is. He thought I never would be able to find him in this big town. He felt sure the old curiosity dealer would not venture far enough away from his shop to track such a fine gentleman. But he forgot one thing. I have kept it all these years, and through it I will find him yet!"

Abstractedly he thrust his hand into an inner pocket and fished out a bit of cardboard. Excitedly he waved it in front of the detective's eyes. Britz resisted for a moment the impulse to snatch it from his grasp, but he gripped himself sharply. Awaiting developments was one of the detective's strong points. As he expected, the old alchemist was in a state of mind to share his knowledge with anybody. After a few more flourishes, Martin laid his hand on a man's visiting card, face down.

Studiously avoiding any appearance of haste, Britz turned it up and read the single line engraved upon it. Without the tremor of a muscle, and with only one swift significant look, he passed the card to Fitch.

The doctor, a little less self-re-

"But I Have Got to Have the Necessary Time."

strained than the detective, looked steadily at a drawing on the back, gazed earnestly at the inscription on the face, then wonderingly, before the card fluttered from his fingers, he read the line aloud.

MR. BRUXTON SANDS.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Assistant District Attorney.

While Britz was struggling with the tangled threads of contradictory circumstances that constituted the fabric of the diamond mystery, the district attorney's office was not inactive. With the slow stealthiness of a cat approaching its prey it combined the disconnected fragments of evidence gathered by the police into the semblance of a perfect case, and prepared to present it to a jury. The grand jury had indicted Elinor Holcomb, and again she was dragged into the glare of a courtroom, this time to plead to the indictment. There remained only the verdict of a petit jury to open the gates of state's prison for her. Her lawyer was served with the fateful notice of trial, and she was made to realize the great struggle was about to begin.

Assistant District Attorney Mott was taking a last survey of the depositions in the case, mentally picturing the curtain of gilt he would weave before the jury. To his mind the evidence was conclusive. It pointed irresistibly to Miss Holcomb as the thief.

And yet, the prosecutor felt there was something strangely lacking in the structure, something that made it appear hollow and unreal. No other reasonable explanation of the disappearance of Mrs. Missioner's necklace offered itself, and still it was hard to conceive Miss Holcomb as the thief. Mott knew that the same uncertainty in the minds of the jurors would inevitably result in a verdict of acquittal. The benefit of any reasonable doubt as to her guilt must go to her, and he realized he had yet to eliminate that last slim possibility of a verdict favorable to the prisoner. Were it an ordinary larceny case he would be content to offer the testimony at hand and leave the verdict to the conscience of the jurors. But this trial would fill thousands of newspaper columns. The press of the entire country was on the alert for it. It meant much to a struggling assistant to obtain a conviction in so famous a case. To lose, he feared, would reflect on his own competence.

The entrance of Britz brought the prosecutor out of his absorption.

"Just the man I wanted to see," he greeted.

"And I'm equally glad to find you in," the detective returned.

"I've got the evidence down pat," Mott responded. "It seems complete; and yet, somehow, I feel that it is not entirely convincing. I want to get something to clinch it. It's a pretty tough proposition at best to get a conviction on circumstantial evidence when the defendant is a woman of good appearance, and I don't want to slip up on this case. We haven't got much time left. The case is on the calendar for next Monday."

"That's what I came to see you about," informed Britz. "I want to get you to adjourn the trial a month."

"New facts?" anxiously inquired the prosecutor.

"Yes."

"Who do you think did the trick?" suddenly questioned Mott.

"Sands, Griswold or the Indian servant," came from the detective's hesitant lips.

The prosecutor's hands went above his head in a despairing gesture.

"Is that as far as you've arrived? Three suspects, and you've no idea which one you want! What sort of weak stuff is in your possession that you don't know whom you're after?"

"The circle is narrowing very quickly," Britz observed. "In the next few days I'll know who committed the robbery, how it was committed, and where the jewels were taken. But I have got to have the necessary time."

"All right," agreed the prosecutor. He called a clerk and directed him to inform Miss Holcomb's lawyer that the case had been withdrawn from the calendar for a month.

The detective was reaching for his hat when Donnelly and Carson burst into the room. Donnelly's face was flushed with the news of a great discovery. Carson was smiling approvingly on his partner.

"We've got the motive for the crime," the two men shouted in one breath.

Britz assumed an attitude of eager interest. The prosecutor looked significantly at him.

"What have you discovered?" he asked.

"That man Fitch is mixed up in the case just as I always thought," Donnelly informed him. "She stole those diamonds for his sake. It's another case of the girl turning thief to help her lover."

"We've run the whole thing down and we have it here in black and white," his fingers clasped three or four letters which he flaunted temptingly before the eyes of the prosecutor. "They confirm our suspicion that Fitch is at the bottom of the whole case. Rather, that he's the man 'higher up.'"

Mott gathered the contents of the missives in three or four sweeping glances as he handed them to Britz. He perused them closely, as if weighing their import while noting their contents. His impassive face masked the emotions they aroused in him, and he returned them to the assistant district attorney with an air of indifference.

"These letters are conclusive," Mott pronounced.

"Conclusive of what?" demanded Britz.

"That Miss Holcomb was the tool of her father and that the two have combined to ensnare your sympathy."

"I guess it wasn't a bad bit of detective work to get those letters," Donnelly smiled.

"I guess not," agreed Carson, anxious to justify his partner's little outburst of self-adulation.

Britz turned to them abruptly. Their flippant tones irritated him. His nature revolted at the ill-bred rejoicing over the prospective degradation of a woman.

"How did you get the letters?" he asked brusquely.

Donnelly, ready to burst with the importance he had gathered, needed no urging to impart the desired information.

"I had Doctor Fitch shadowed from the day he appeared at headquarters to inquire about Miss Holcomb," he said. "That's how I got on that he was negotiating with a real estate agent. Luckily, the agent was a friend of mine, and he informed me that Fitch had purchased and paid for a site on which to build a modern sanatorium. Yes, sir, he put up $90,000 for the ground; and the buildings and furnishings, I learned, are to cost nearly a quarter of a million. It wasn't easy to get the agent to turn over Fitch's letters, but I told him he'd have to produce them before the grand jury under a subpoena, so he handed them over."

"Have you tried to learn where he got the money?" Britz demanded.

"It's plain enough where he got the money. The individual stones of the necklace would bring all the money he needed for the deal."

"But have you tried to make sure that he sold the diamonds?" Britz persisted.

"I'll get all that without much trouble," was the confident reply.

"Well, go ahead and get it," Britz ordered.

When the two detectives left the room Mott found it impossible to restrain his gratification.

"I guess you'll admit you're on the wrong way," he jeered. "You've bewildered yourself with your own zeal. This is the sort of stuff I want," he declared, angering the letters.

"You've been led astray. Now get on the right trail and accomplish something."

An attendant entered with a card. The prosecutor glanced at it and passed it over to the detective.

"He's an old friend," Mott remarked. "We were in college together."

A dark flush suffused Britz's countenance and deepened his yellow ivory complexion to a dull gray. He fixed a look of anxious interrogation on Mott, as if doubtful of the wisdom of admitting the visitor into this back room of the temple of justice.

"I know he's one of your suspects," the prosecutor laughed, at the same time pressing a button which sounded a buzzer in the reception room. "Yes, he's one of the figures in this comedy of errors you're playing, but I'll not inform him that, in your eyes, he's one of the possible thieves. You may go ahead suspecting whom you will without interference on my part."

The swinging door opened, and Griswold sauntered into the room. The cordial smile he bestowed on Mott faded to superciliousness when he beheld Britz. He glanced at the detective as if resentful of his presence.

"I presume you can guess why I called," he said familiarly to the prosecutor.

"It requires no mind reader to fathom the object of your visit," Mott laughed back.

"Mrs. Missioner is on the verge of nervous prostration," Griswold informed. "She asked me to inquire about the progress of the case. Do you know, she can't get herself to believe Elinor guilty. Sands is inclined to agree with her to the extent of offering to go on Miss Holcomb's bond."

"Why doesn't he do so?" inquired the prosecutor.

"Because Mrs. Missioner objects," Griswold replied. "She believes that the swiftest way to clear Elinor is to turn her to remain in the Tombs. I confess I cannot see the force of her argument, but she is evidently acting under what she believes to be com-

SICK DAUGHTER NOW WELL

Mrs. C. Cole Tells How Her Daughter Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio. "I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what your medicine has done for my daughter.

"Before taking your medicine she was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, could not walk but a short distance at a time, and had severe pains in head and limbs. She came very near having nervous prostration. She had begun to cough a good deal and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help.

"I cannot find words to express my gratefulness for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for my daughter. She feels and looks like another girl since taking it, and I shall always feel that I owe you a great debt.

"You can use this letter for the benefit of others if you wish, as I shall always recommend your medicines for female troubles."—Mrs. C. COLE, Fitchville, Ohio.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Young Girls, Read This Advice. Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
